President's Message

Dear friends and companions to Sour-mugs everywhere,

As I compose this message, the gentle snoring sounds of Bella and Fawn are wafting through the air. We have just set our clocks ahead for Daylight Savings Time and have a little more daylight for outside activities. The weather is wonderful and I hope we all take the opportunity to spend a little more outside time with our bullies. We are already almost three full months into year and have many exciting activities planned for the upcoming months.

We have already enjoyed a successful "Meet the Breed" activity that was held in February in conjunction with the Silver Bay Kennel Club shows. We had many visitors and were able to share a lot of information about the Bulldog breed and the Club. We were able to meet new friends and provide a positive image to our many visitors. A special thanks to Marie Weir for organizing the event and to all who participated in manning the booth and providing this meaningful service to the community.

Our Spring Picnic is coming up on the 29th of March and will be held at San Dieguito Park from 2-5 p.m. It promises to be exciting and fun. Sarah Grant and her committee have done a great job in preparation for this event and we hope to see many of you there. These activities are wonderful for socializing our dogs and getting to know each other better. There will be an auction sponsored by Bulldog Rescue, which will give those who attend an opportunity to support the San Diego Bulldog Rescue organization and their selfless work. They are helping many bulldogs that come to them in need of medical and other help. They are finding wonderful individuals and families to love and protect them from the physical and emotional abuse they may have suffered.

I want to give a big welcome to our newest Club members Elizabeth Matthew, Roy Bost, Kenneth and Dawn Nail. It is great to have them on board and I encourage them to share their talents as they participate in club activities. We still have a number of members who have not renewed their membership in the Club and encourage them to send in their dues to Corina Cauldren, our Club treasurer.

Our next big club activity will be the Bulldog Club of Greater San Diego

Specialty Shows on Saturday and Sunday May 17th and 18th. The Club is sponsoring two events this year and Naomi Bell Hawker is our Show Chairman. She is doing a wonderful job but could still use some volunteers to help with the event. She will need many volunteers to help with set up, hospitality, take down and other service opportunities. We also need sponsors who would be willing to place ads in our Show Catalog. Please let me know if you can help. All help is greatly appreciated.

After the Specialty Show our next club event will be the Del Mar Fair in June. I hope that many of you will participate in this public outreach and educational event. The club will have a bulldog booth to provide information about the breed. We encourage participants to bring their bulldogs. People love to come and pet the animals and it provides us with a wonderful opportunity to educate the public about the special needs of our lovable Sourmugs.

Lydia DeMars, one of our newest board members has suggested the scheduling of a 5K run in late summer or early fall. If any of you are interested in participating or being a sponsor please contact her. There is a lot more we could do with more involvement. We appreciate your input and encourage your questions and suggestions for club improvement.

TIDBITS

from the editor

Has your dog ever come up to you and opened his mouth and it just about knocked you over? Bad breath in a dog is often dismissed simply as “doggy breath.”

In fact, it may signal periodontal disease, which is the most common ailment suffered by dogs and cats over 3 years old. Preventing periodontal disease can result in longer, healthier lives for pets.

Proper pet dental care begins with a trip to the veterinarian for a dental exam. During this exam, if plaque or tartar has buildup, a cleaning may be necessary. Afterwards, it is important to begin a home dental program.

Dental disease is a common problem and is covered by most pet insurance policies.

Spring Bully Baskets

The May Specialty Show Committee would like to ask that members participate in creating a "Bully Basket" to be auctioned off at our Specialty Show in May.

To participate, create a gift basket themed around your bulldog! For example, my Guenevere loves to wear her little doggy shirt that says "Daddy's Girl" so I'll include one in my basket. She also loves to drink from her "Princess" bowl, so I'll get one for the basket. Gwen loves to eat Old Mother Hubbard's Peanut Butter Doggy Treats, so I'll include a bag of those too. I'll add a bottle of her favorite shampoo and a squeaky toy. She also enjoys going through the drive-thru at Jack-In-The-Box because they always give her doggy biscuits, so I'll include a gift card from there. Get the idea? Then, each basket needs to be labeled with a tag and named with your dog's name.

My basket will be the Princess Guenevere Basket.

The baskets will be auctioned off at the Specialty Show to help raise money for our club. I hope everyone will join in on the fun!!!

For more information and to get the baskets to us contact naomibell@hotmail.com

Fang would like to hear from you about problems you may be having with your Bulldog. You can reach him at the above addresses.

Dear Fang,
What is it like to be a show dog? My mom thinks she would like to try it.
Wondering

Dear Wondering,
Being a show dog is a lot of fun. I really like to do the performance stuff more than conformation although you do get liver treats in the breed ring and you can't get food in the working rings.

To be a show dog you do have to have a lot of baths and that is a pain but everyone does tell you how beautiful you are so that's good.

If your Mom wants you to be a good show dog she will take you to lots of different places so you won't be frightened at the shows. You'll get lots of training treats and praise. You will have to walk on a loose lead, stand and stuff like that but that is all really easy for a Bulldog.

You will get to go to training classes every week and that is lots of fun. Some of us get mad if it rains or class is cancelled. When you go to class you get to show off for the other dogs, visit with friends. Most of the people that go to classes carry treats in their pockets and if you are polite and cute they will give you some. If you do performance things like obedience and rally then when you do well all the other exhibitors and spectators are so impressed that Bulldogs can do these really simple things. Try it, you'll have fun!

Betty Fisher

Betty Fisher has owned and trained Bulldogs to more than twenty obedience, carting and agility titles. She is the author of "So Your Dog's Not Lassie" an award winning book on training independent dogs and "Caninestein", both recommended by the Bulldog Club of America. Betty writes a regular performance column for the Bulldogger, magazine of the Bulldog Club of America.

Brag-

Copper earned her 3rd leg for her Companion (CD) title today at the Fresno Dog Training Club trial under Judge Jill Urbina in the Noovice B. She was 3rd place with 175 1/2 and also won the Lowest Qyalifying Score in the trial. This adds to her honors as the best clown at the 2007 national! She is now White Fang Copper Bear CD, RA.

The Bulldog Club of Greater San Diego will be presenting a three-show event on May 17th and 18th at the beautiful Bernardo Winery. On Saturday, the Bulldog Club of America will conduct the morning show. The Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning shows will be hosted by the Bulldog Club of Greater San Diego. The event is an AKC sanctioned dog show featuring conformation, obedience and rally events. All the contestants will be bulldogs.

In order to pay for the event we have been attracting sponsors. Becoming a sponsor grants advertisement at the show, in our show catalog, and allows for a booth. Booth space can be used for vending and information. The sponsorships are $500.

Other options to support our shows include Trophy Pledges. This is where individuals or businesses donate the funds for ribbons and trophies. You can choose which event or amount you are interested in. These donations can be in any amount.

Another option is to donate a "Bully Basket" or a gift basket to be sold at our show auction. The basket can be filled with products from your business, including flyers and brochures. For example, we received 2 gift certificates for canine massage therapy sessions in a small basket.

Any and all help will be greatly appreciated. For sponsorship forms, trophy pledge sheets or booth rentals, please contact me. Thanks for support.

Respectfully-

Naomi Bell

About Our Club

The Bulldog Club of Greater San Diego, founded in 1953, is a member of the Bulldog Club of America, Division III. We are incorporated in the State of California as a non-profit organization. BCGSD is licensed by the American Kennel Club to hold Bulldog Specialty Shows and Bulldog Obedience Trials. The purpose and objectives of the club are:

- To promote the ownership and breeding of purebred Bulldogs.
- To stimulate a greater interest in and better knowledge of this breed by educational programs within the club.
- To encourage competitive public showing of bulldogs and advance the breed in public esteem.

Our annual events include a Specialty Show in which we are accepting a limited amount of sponsorships.

BCGSD also maintains a close relationship with Bulldog Rescue of San Diego, who places rescue bulldogs into loving adoptive homes.

The BCGSD and the BCA Div. III are having a specialty dog show here in San Diego on May 17 & 18th.

Specialty shows are restricted to dogs of a specific breed; ours of course, allows only Bulldogs.

How a Dog Show Works

Each dog presented to a judge is exhibited ("handled") by its owner, breeder or a hired professional. The role of a handler is similar to that of a jockey who rides a horse around the track and, hopefully, into the winner's circle.

Most dogs in competition at conformation shows are competing for points toward their AKC championships. It takes fifteen points, including two majors (wins of three, four or five points) awarded by at least three different judges, to become an American Kennel Club "Champion of Record."

The number of championship points awarded at a show depends on the number of males ("dogs") and females ("bitches") of the breed actually in competition. The larger the entry, the greater the number of points a male or a female can win. The maximum number of points awarded to a dog at any show is 5 points.

Males and females compete separately within their respective breeds, in six regular classes. The following classes are offered, and are divided by sex:

Puppy - For dogs between six and twelve months of age, that are not yet champions.

Twelve-To-Eighteen Months - For dogs twelve to eighteen months of age, that are not yet champions.

Novice - For dogs six months of age and over, which have not, prior to the date of closing of entries, won three first prizes in the Novice Class, a first prize in Bred-by-Exhibitor, American-bred, or Open Classes, nor one or more points toward their championship.

Bred By Exhibitor - For dogs that are exhibited by their owner and breeder, that are not yet champions.

American-Bred - For dogs born in the United States from a mating which took place in the United States, that are not yet champions.

Open - For any dog of the breed, at least 6 months of age.

After these classes are judged, all the dogs that won first place in a class compete again to see who is the best of the winning dogs. Males and females are judged separately. Only the best male (Winners Dog) and the best female (Winners Bitch) receive championship points.

Please join us for some "Fun In The Sun".

Dogs Home Alone

Dogs have a much better time of it these days. No longer do they have to while away hours in the doghouse outside; they are more often kept indoors and treated like family members. But, although we may have changed our attitude toward our pets, we have changed our lifestyles, too, and we are now less available.

Frequently both parents work away from home and the kids are at school. So, although dogs no longer have to battle the elements outside, they do have to contend with being home alone during the day, sometimes all day, with little to occupy their time. From the owner's point of view, the home may be ideal: plush rugs, elegant furniture, and chic décor, but dogs do not appreciate such environmental refinement and would by far prefer to be socializing with people or other dogs, or chasing a blowing leaf outside.

Like children, dogs have an agenda that is subtly different from that of adult humans, and have likes and dislikes that can be diametrically opposed.

Some "Type-B" personality dogs may nap during their owners' absence, arising lazily with a yawn and stretch upon their return. Other more compulsive "Type-A" dogs may suffer extreme boredom and stress during their owners' absence. The telltale signs are easy to see: the garbage can contents may be strewn across the floor, cupboard doors opened, food stores raided, paper or pillows shredded, and so on. While there is a well-known syndrome of separation anxiety, the bored dog scenario is distinct from separation anxiety and represents the sometimes ingenious attempts of a dog that is "bored out of his mind" to find something time-filling to do.

In attempting to distinguish between a dog with separation anxiety and one that is just bored you should ask yourself the following questions:

- Does he greet you over-exuberantly when you return?
- Does he destroy things ONLY in your absence?
- Is he a "Velcro dog"? (Does he follow you around constantly?)
- Did you get him when he was over three months of age?
- Has he had multiple owners?
- Did you acquire your dog from a shelter or pound?
- Does he appear anxious as you prepare to depart?
- Does he whine or bark after you have left?
- Does he urinate or defecate ONLY in your absence?
- Does he refuse to eat when you are away?

A score of five or more "yes" answers is highly suggestive of separation anxiety. If any doubt exists as to the precise cause of the dog's unrest or agitation when you are away, a video recording will serve as the tiebreaker. Dogs with separation anxiety are visibly anxious, pacing, panting, and whining or barking, whereas dogs that are bored simply wander around searching for something to do. Also, they may get up and down frequently and act in an unsettled, restless way as if experiencing a dilemma (which they probably are).

The key to managing an otherwise bored dog is "Environmental Enrichment" (the big E's). Below is a list of measures that owners can employ to reduce their dog's tedium during long stints home alone.

- 1. Get a dog for your dog. Although getting a dog for your dog rarely works to improve separation anxiety, this can help your bored dog – as long as the two dogs get along. However, introducing an overly dominant, oppressive dog may have exactly the opposite effect. If in doubt, ask an expert to help you select the right dog for your dog and lean toward a younger individual and one of even temperament.
- 2. Hire a dog walker. Most dogs really appreciate the lunchtime visits of a dog walker who provides a much welcome respite in the middle of an otherwise long day of nothing to do.
- 3. Doggy day care. One better than a dog walker is doggy day care. The problem here is that it is expensive and thus probably only available to yuppie puppies. Check out the day care center thoroughly as you would kiddy day care for young children.
- 4. Crates. Providing a dog with a crate gives him a room of his own, a place in which to hang out and to get away from it all. If you don't provide a crate, most dogs will improvise, finding solitude under a table or bed or behind a couch. Crates should never be used for punishment or as a substitute for appropriate management. I think it is rarely, if ever, appropriate to shut a dog in his crate all day while you are away but an open crate is another matter.

5. Food puzzles/sustained release food. Most people have developed the habit of feeding their dog before they leave in the morning. The dog wolfs down his food and then has nothing to do all day. It may be more appropriate to feed the dog as you leave and/or to arrange for the food to be discovered by the dog after you have left.

6. Radio/TV. Many people already leave a radio or television on for their dog when they leave. The "white noise effect" does seem to have a soothing effect and thus may have some redeeming features. Think of it this way; any lilting/melodic sound (not "heavy metal") or even just background gibberish is probably better than the sound of silence or a clock ticking on the mantelpiece. Most animals seem to prefer seeing images of other animals or nature programs.

7. Room with a view. Some of the best visual enrichment that a "home alone dog" can enjoy is the "real TV" experience of observing the world outside through a window with a panoramic view.

8. Transitional object. Some people report that leaving out an article of their apparel comforts their dog. The dog can then snuggle up to the item in their absence and be reminded of better times.

9. Rotation of toys. Well-meaning owners leave toys out for their dog to play with in their absence. This is a valuable enrichment strategy but will not work well unless the toys are interesting and novel. Toys that move or are good to chew are apparently the most fun and the way to keep them riveting is to rotate them so that they don't lose their appeal.

10. "A tired dog is a good dog." You could also say, a happy dog. Exercise generates serotonin in the brain and thus has a calming and mood-stabilizing effect on man and beast. A dog that has had a good run for 20 to 30 minutes before the owner departs will be less anxious, more composed, and prepared for a little R & R in the form of a good nap.

11. Dog door/fenced in yard (except perhaps in the big city). Another idea, if you live in the suburbs and have a reasonable-sized fenced in yard, is to fit a dog door to allow your dog to come and go at will.

There are many ways that we can try and make our dogs' lives more interesting and engaging during our absence. Some dogs will fare quite well with the application of just a few of the measures listed above. Nevertheless, the wisdom of getting a highly social pet like a dog must be considered if you know in advance that you will be required to be apart from that pet for many hours each day. It is preferable to choose the right time in your life to acquire a dog – a time when you are in a position to spend sufficient quality time with your pet and not wind up a latchkey parent. For those of you for whom this advice is too late, take heart, adopt the some of the big E's, and look out for your old pal.

Buster Food Cube

The original food-dispensing toy for dogs! Make your dog WORK a little for that hard-earned treat. It's food, fun, and a puzzle...all in one! Highly recommended by animal behaviorists.
